Keeping your immune system strong is a year-round concern, but it's even more important when heading back to school. This simple event can cause many changes in your daily routine, and these changes can present challenges for our immune system.

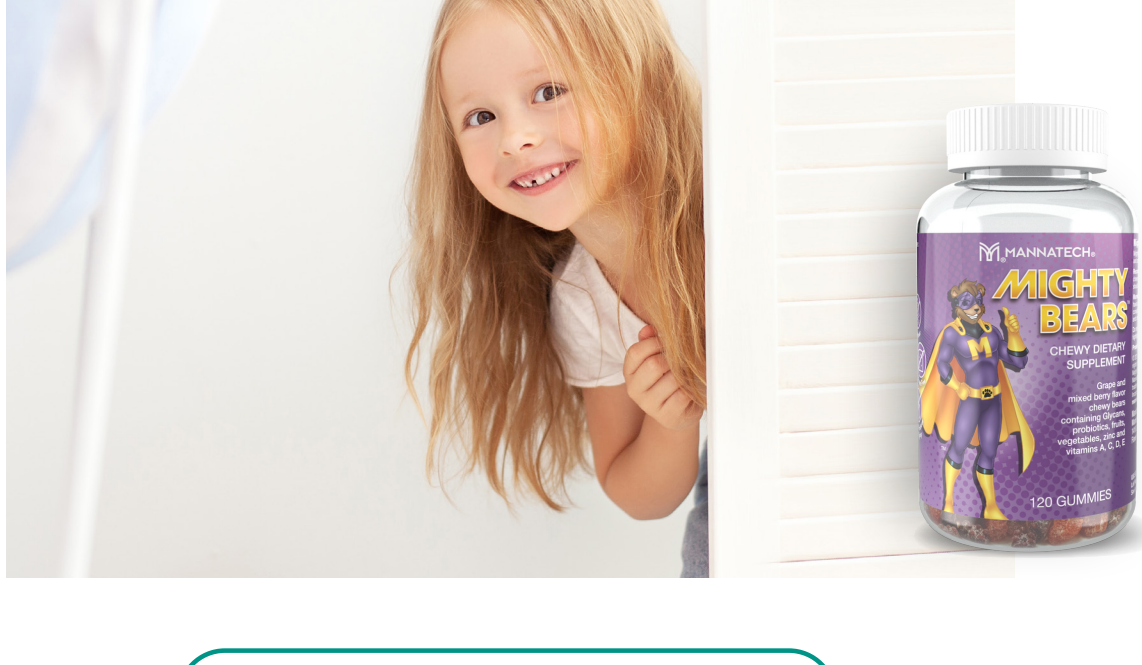

- Exposure to new germs
- Longer days
- More hectic schedules
- Over-exertion with training
- Deadlines
- Stress

Supporting your immune system AFTER it is already challenged is helpful; however, getting ahead of the game and providing a strong foundation for this system is the best thing you can do! Making healthy lifestyle choices like eating nutrient-rich foods, exercising, getting enough sleep, and discovering ways to relax are some important ways to maintain a healthy immune system.

For even more support and help in building a firmer foundation, we have amazing products that you can add to your healthy self-care arsenal right now: MightyBears™ gummies.* Add to your Monthly Subscription today!
